PREFACE

At the Genealogical Records Workshop held in connection with the 1975 Arkansas State Conference of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, the need for an index such as this became apparent. Though many cemetery inscriptions throughout the State had been copied, and some published, those wishing to use the records did not know where to find them. Also, those wishing to copy additional inscriptions were anxious to avoid duplicating previous efforts. Members of the Prudence Hall Chapter, NSDAR, who attended the Workshop returned home with a desire to do something about this problem, and at the May, 1975 Chapter meeting, publishing an "Index to Sources for Arkansas Cemetery Inscriptions" was adopted as the Chapter's Bicentennial project.

Although a work such as this is never truly complete, as additional cemetery inscriptions are continually being listed in various publications, efforts have been made to secure the location of all current listings, both published and unpublished. Each library, historical association, Extension Home Economist office, and DAR Chapter in the State has been contacted for records in their area. The interest and response of these groups was invaluable.

Some years ago the Extension Homemakers Clubs throughout the State listed many cemetery inscriptions. Some of these were published by various county associations, some were filed in local libraries and court houses, and some were placed in the Arkansas History Commission. The cooperation of the Extension Homemakers in making available the lists compiled by the various counties surely adds to the value of this Index for the researcher.

Many of the quarterlies and books listed as sources in this Index can be found at the Arkansas History Commission. Those entries showing ArHi indicate that these particular cemeteries are on microfilm at the Arkansas History Commission by counties. Due to staff limitations in that office, copies of records cannot be reproduced or searched upon request. Researchers should go directly to the Commission reading room for this information.

A Record of Interment by name is maintained by the National cemeteries in the State, which are at Little Rock, Fayetteville, and Fort Smith. Specific information can be obtained by addressing queries to the Superintendent of the National Cemetery at those places.

The cemeteries are indexed herein alphabetically by counties, with an abbreviation for the source shown by them. Publications having volumes, numbers, etc. are so indicated. The key to the abbreviations used follows. The location of individual cemeteries is not included, as this information will in most instances be provided in the source.

The Committee has endeavored to be accurate in copying sources. To conserve space, where white and Negro cemeteries having the same name are in the same source, this is indicated by -* following the name. Where the cemetery is solely Negro this is indicated by -(*)- following the name. Prudence Hall Chapter can accept no responsibility for the authenticity of the records in the sources listed.

This compilation would have been impossible without the advice and cooperation of Russell Baker, Archivist with the Arkansas History Commission, and Mrs. Mario B. Cia, editor of the Arkansas Family Historian and renowned genealogist. A special thank you is also due to Pat Wilson Snyder for designing the cover. There is no way to name the hundreds of individuals who assisted by sending requested information, and those dedicated persons who did the actual copying of the tombstone inscriptions.
